

"Dave" has
I have had been a circus in 5 yrs. together and I hope you have just as much fun Germany. Lots of suck to a real swell kid.

Steve
Johnson
"88"

Administration

They Made Our School Possible

BOARD OF EDUCATION — Seated Around the Table from Left to Right: J. Kleiner, Dr. V. Olson, I. Bennett, W. Pynne, S. Andrews, H. DeLong, Dr. J. Gericke, M. Peterson, and G. D. Barnes.

Have you ever wondered what goes on behind the doors of a School Board meeting? The general public's impression is that all the weighty problems involved in planning school policies are mulled over and decided upon in an atmosphere of dull, businesslike efficiency.

Actually, the mood of the meetings is much less sophisticated and may begin with a casual munching of life-savers in relaxed positions. A burgeoning population, the need for another high school, an evaluation of our curriculum, employee wage demands, and many other problems involved in "running" the schools requires clear thinking, reasonableness, and tact. These attributes have paid off as the citizens of Eau Claire can look with justifiable pride upon their public schools. "Life-savers" might be the term applied to these fine, public-spirited men. The "casual atmosphere" then is an excellent environment in which they work.

Homer DeLong heads our fine school system.

The Guiding Hand Of Youth

Along with being a very capable vice-principal, John Thorngate teaches physics, is head of the Science Department, and handles the duties of Curriculum Coordinator.

The tremendous job of leading our school is placed on the shoulders of our principal, David Barnes.

The Sophomore Class Advisor, Miss Mable Regli, also teaches four classes of English.

The duties of the Dean of Girls and Junior Class Advisor are in the hands of Mrs. Frances Coffman.

Mr. Kunz spends many hours of arduous work as Senior Class Advisor and world history teacher.

Congenial Allan Johnson finds "disciplining the boys" and teaching two classes of U. S. history a full time job.

Some of the finest rooms in our new high school are the administration offices. The principals, class advisors, and deans have their hands full counseling and guiding students as well as interviewing parents.

In a voracious attempt to make our school life uncomplicated, our administration spends many school hours and their summer vacations arranging our schedules and balancing our classes for the following year.

President Brad Easterson addresses the student council consisting of the following members. Back Row: T. Schwartz, J. Coggins, C. Carlson, W. Lind, B. Kopplin, J. Jones, W. Johnson, B. Neuman, and T. Partlow. Front Row: J. Borum, L. Everson, J. Walters, C. Bliss, S. Tiller, K. Gabus, C. Gabrielson, B. Hill, L. Harsh, and K. Furrer.

Secretaries And Student Council

Secretary of Class Advisors
Karen Nelson

Principal's Secretary
Elizabeth Stuck

Coordination Secretary
Mary Jo Krogstad

One of the many girls who helps with the office duties during the day is Lorna Bilderback.

Writing out a deposit slip is Barb Aberg in the Booster Office.

Lynn Everson is performing one of the many daily tasks completed in the Booster Office by writing out a receipt for Chuck Kuhnert.

School Store And Booster Office

"Do you want it in silver?" Delores Hayes asks a customer.

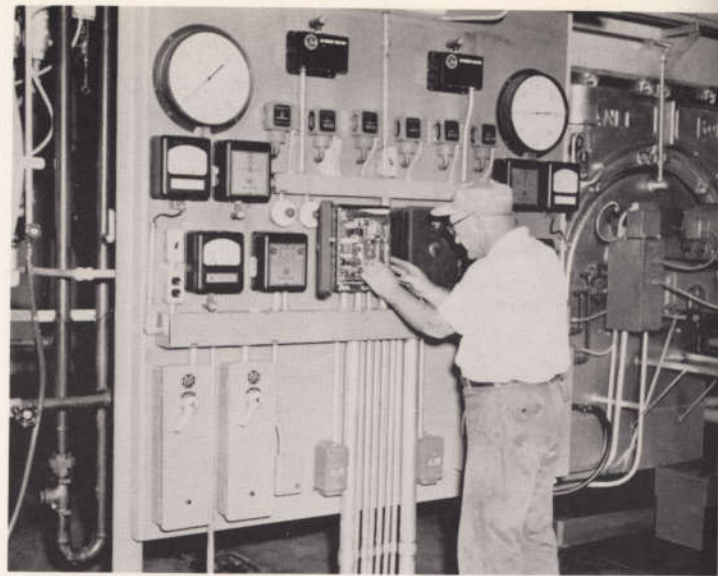

Sandy Dreke tries out one of the pens in the school store while Nancy Heintz awaits a sale.

The booster office, supervised by Mr. Herried and run by the students during their free periods, is the bank for the clubs and organizations of the school. The continuous flow of people in and out only hints of the business that is carried on each day.

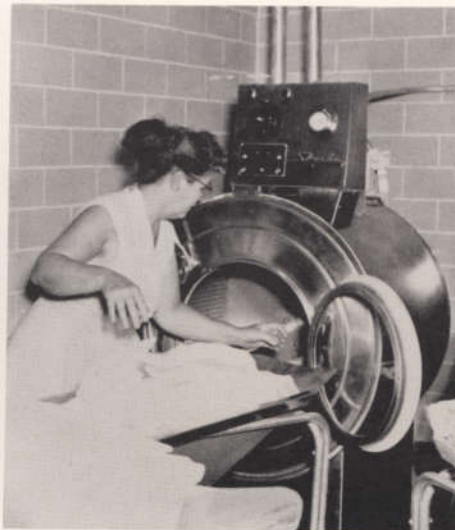

The school store, efficiently run by the students and supervised by Miss Forsjord, is a convenient source of supplies for both students and teachers. Everything from carbon paper to maps is available at a reduced price.

Cooks And Custodians

Pictured at the right trying to manipulate the maze of controls and levers, is Lymen "Peck" Hotchkiss, the head custodian.

This competent staff of cooks, who are properly dressed in white, is preparing lunch for the students of Memorial High School.

Mrs. Hardy, the laundress, operates one of many new facilities provided in our school.

Being head cook, Mrs. Olga Ringlien has the duty of preparing the menu.

Pictured at the left is Ray Thompson who is engaged in one of his numerous jobs as a custodian.

Many people are not aware of the terrific responsibility and burdens that confront the cooks and custodians each day.

Long before the school day has officially begun and hours after everyone has gone, the custodians are here ironing out the many problems created by the occupation of a new school building.

Too often we take for granted our opportunity to eat an inexpensive meal every day at school. The students of ECMH enjoy listening to popular music, which accompanies the hot lunches.