MR. BARNES — Principal

BOARD OF EDUCATION — Left to Right: Mr. Homer DeLong, W. Pynn, J. Kleiner, P. Bjerke, I. Bennett, Dr. Gericke, M. C. Peterson, Dr. Lotz, D. Barnes.

Board of Education

Superintendent of School, Homer DeLong

The Board of Education has a very difficult job in providing facilities for the education we need and selecting teachers who will best do the work in guiding the students of Memorial High. Their job is entirely voluntary. Their only compensation is the satisfaction derived from public service well rendered. Laying the groundwork for a new high school has occupied many hours of their time. For this the community of Eau Claire is appreciative.

One person familiar to the students is our principal, Mr. Barnes. He has to be everywhere at once taking each of the senior homerooms for a week and helping students with their troubles. Teachers also find Mr. Barnes ready to help them whenever they need it.

Firmness, Sympathy, Diligence Typify Our Administration

Mr. Kunz, Sophomore Class Advisor, Mrs. Coffman, Senior Class Advisor, and Miss Regli, Junior Class Advisor are taking a break from their busy schedule for a moment in the All Purpose Room.

At the right, Mrs. Coffman, Dean of Girls, and Mr. Johnson, Dean of Boys, are always available to help students with their special problems.

All of the students have come in contact with the "helpful three." The Deans, Class Advisors, and our principal are always there to handle our problems. Their patience, understanding, and years of experience are evident in every situation they face.

Standing: John Baker, Lynn Loken, Dave Putney, Jan Hulbert, Larry Domer, Bill Lindsay, Tom Rawlings, Tom German, Claus Westphal, Richard Jensen, Roger Tietz, Craig Carlson, Bill Lind, Bruce Kopplin, Lynn Preston, and Jim Van Gorden.

Mrs. Carol O'Brien, secretary to the class advisors, runs off copies of the list of absentees to be distributed among the teachers.

Performing one of her many duties, Miss Stuck, secretary in the principal's office, is returning a lost locker key to Barb Preston.

Of The Students By The Students For The Students

"I know, the alarm clock didn't go off." says Mrs. Hanson, co-ordination secretary.

The Girls Downstairs

Priscilla Gram, left, purchases a box of colored pencils and a notebook from Yolanda Sheppard.

A Penny Saved In The School Store

The girls who work in the school store gain valuable experience in handling money; they also get an idea of how a small business is run. The store, under the supervision of Miss Helen Forsjord, sells school supplies to the students at a reduced rate, and the profit made is used to buy material for the commercial department.

Dimes, Dollars And Deposits!

Barb Schroeder makes change, one of her many duties in the booster office.

Barb Schroeder and Sandra Zimmerman count and write out a receipt for the money they received from Kathy Pachio.

Have you ever wondered what becomes of the money you pay as admission to a school activity? It is deposited along with the rest of the money collected during a school day in the booster office, and from there it is taken to the bank and kept there for future use. The sponsors of each club, organization, and activity, as well as homeroom teachers, are frequently seen here making money deposits.

Readily they move along.

Hats off to a real fine group of K.P. guys and gals, who provide us with well balanced and tasty hot lunches and keep our building clean.

With the help of students and faculty our staff runs through over 1800 students within an hour and a half. A lunch in the cafeteria is not the most tranquil experience in the world. Yet, with the eating and rushing around, the staff keeps it going in a most efficient manner.

A school day begins and ends with the ever present custodian performing the task of keeping our building spotless and in repair.

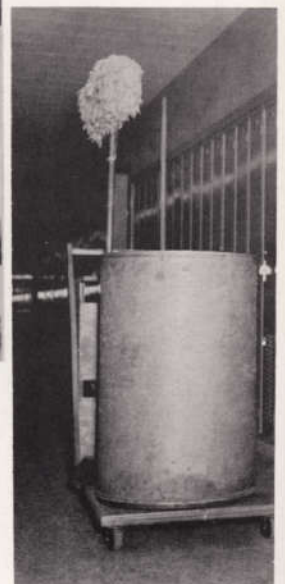

We'll serve you.

An ant's eye view of a daily sweeping.

Feeding the multitude.

Standing at attention.
